EDITORIAL

DEAR READER,

As you read this, spring 2024 is already upon us. The trees are starting to turn green, and migratory birds have returned to chirp in our gardens. After a few challenging trading years, we are seeing a glimmer of hope. There has already been a clear improvement in pre-sales for the 2024 season. The grills left in the stores from previous summers have been sold off and replaced by new products.

In gas grills, we will be launching the new Mustang Smithville and Shelbyville grills this spring. These three-, four- and six-burner gas grills meet the needs of every grilling enthusiast. The grills have large cooking areas, and under the grates and griddles you will find efficient stainless steel pipe burners, which heat up the grills quickly. The Smithville grill range features powder-coated steel lids and cart cabinet doors. In the Shelbyville grills, the lid and cabinet doors are made of stainless steel.

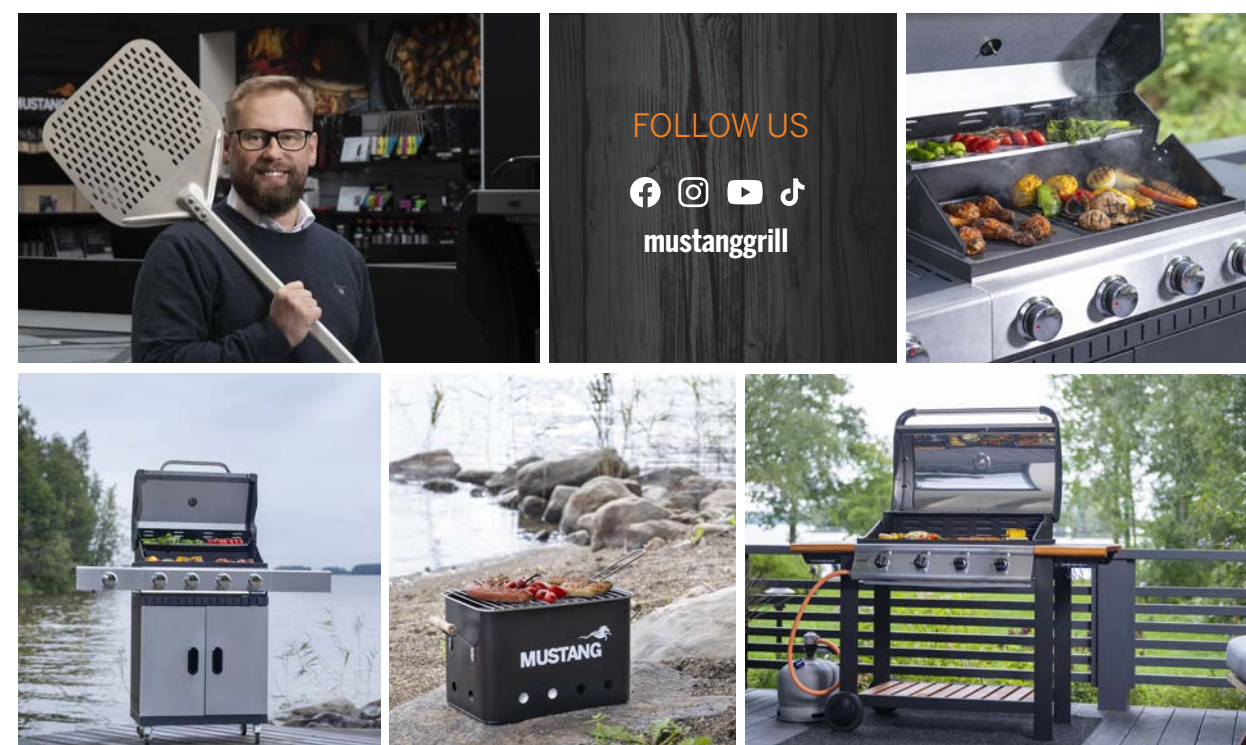

In the article "Wood makes a comeback to terraces", we present the new Greenville range of gas grills. The carts of these three- and four-burner gas grills feature many wooden parts. They give the grill a great look and are perfect for many types of decks next to new wooden garden furniture.

In the article "Take your picnic to the next level", we introduce the new Mustang Party and Party Bucket charcoal grills. These lightweight charcoal grills are easy to bring along on picnics to make tasty meals to enjoy with friends in the park.

This magazine includes tips for easy lighting of charcoal and briquettes, a look at the latest food trends, and information on the versatile use of kamado grills, among other things. We also introduce Mustang's new coconut briquettes and tell you more about their eco-friendliness.

We wish you a pleasant and delicious grilling spring and summer 2024!

The versatile kamado grill

Several grilling methods with only one grill

Tender ribs, crispy wings, juicy brisket, tasty burgers, maybe a hint of smoke... In Kamado grill you can do it all!

Psst.. Kamado grills and selected accessories come with up to 10 years warranty program, check the warranty program at mustang-grill.com

The ceramic kamado grill is the most versatile grill for your garden. A single grill allows you to both grill steaks quickly over direct heat and, by using indirect heat and low temperatures, slow-cook large chunks of meat for several hours without fear of the meat drying out. A kamado grill is also an ideal pizza oven, especially if you use an elevated grate with a pizza stone on top.

By using the 5-in-1 grilling system, you can cook on direct and indirect heat at the same time, which is a great feature for burger lovers, for example. You can also set the grates at different heights to take advantage of the different temperatures inside the grill.

By using an elevated grate, you can almost double the cooking area, as well as taking advantage of the different temperatures inside the grill. By placing a pizza stone on top of an elevated grate, you can turn your kamado grill into an excellent pizza oven. This brings the pizza closer to the grill lid, allowing the heat reflected from the lid to cook the pizza toppings, while the pizza stone cooks the base of the pizza. Use the motorized rotisserie to rotate a whole chicken or a large piece of meat and cook it evenly on all sides.

Feel free to try out the different kamado accessories and enjoy all-round cooking with just one grill. You can find all of our kamado products on page 64.

What is barbecue-grilling?

The kamado grill is at its most classic in barbecue grilling, where smoking and grilling combines. In barbecuing, you grill the meat in low heat for a long time, making it extra tender and providing it a nuanced flavor. Kamado's ceramic body is perfect for this, as it stores heat evenly and for a long time. Barbecuing often utilizes smoke circling around the meat, cooking the meat in the process. Get the smoke circulating in the barbecue by adding a couple of smoking chunks to the coals.

Learn more about Mustang barbecue grills and master the new way to grill. But beware, barbecuing gives you an inexhaustible appetite for experimentation. Get ready to get hooked on grilling!

DIRECT AND FAST GRILLING METHOD

JUICY RIBS GRILLED WITH TIME

DIRECT AND INDIRECT GRILLING METHOD AT THE SAME TIME

WINGS IN TWO LAYERS

RIBS WITH THE 3-2-1 METHOD

- 4–5 racks of pork ribs
- 2–4 dl spice rub
- Roughly 1 dl soft brown sugar
- Roughly 250 g butter
- Apple juice from a spray bottle
- BBQ sauce
- Butcher Paper
- Smoking wood chunks

Heat the Mustang Kamado to roughly 120 °C with charcoal. At the beginning of the smoking phase, place 4–6 smoking wood chunks over the ember bed. Season the ribs with the spice rub. Now, we will use the 3-2-1 method, i.e., smoke the ribs on low heat (100–120 °C) for three hours and then wrap them in Butcher Paper for two hours. Before wrapping, spray the ribs lightly with apple juice, for example. Add dabs of butter and soft brown sugar inside the paper as well. For the last one hour, cook the ribs without paper in a higher temperature (e.g., 130–150 °C), regularly basting them with BBQ sauce.

The ribs will be done in roughly six hours, depending on their size and cut. The most important thing is to understand when the ribs are done. The easiest way to determine this is to test the tenderness with a fork, for example. Another sign of doneness is when the ends of the bones are sticking out from the meat.

OKTOBERFEST PULLED PORK

- approx. 2 kg pork shoulder
- 2 dl Dijon mustard (don't hesitate to try the flavored versions as well)
- 2–3 dl spice rub (add more salt if you want)
- 1 l German-type lager

Take the meat out of the refrigerator roughly two hours before cooking. Heat the Mustang Kamado to 150 degrees. Place the meat in a suitable baking dish. Rub mustard and spice rub all over the meat. Add a few smoking wood chunks to the grill and place a heat deflector plate inside the grill. Put a water dish on top of the heat deflector plate so you get moisture in the grill and the meat does not dry out. Roast with the hood closed for roughly 1–2 hours.

Add the lager. You can also inject the lager into the meat using an injector. Lower the heat to around 100–125 degrees using the air vents and smoke the meat for another 3–6 hours, until the internal temperature of the meat is around 93 degrees, at which point the meat is ready to be pulled.

Serve the meat with sauerkraut. Tip: you can also strain and thicken the broth to make a tasty sauce for the pork!

BRISKET

- 1 beef brisket (6–9 kg)
- 3–5 dl 10% brine
- 1–2 dl fine sea salt
- roughly 1–1/2 dl ground black pepper
- Smoking wood chunks
- Butcher Paper

Start by trimming excess fat off the brisket. Salt the brisket with 10% brine, using an injector. Rub salt and black pepper onto the surface of the meat.

Heat the Mustang Kamado with charcoal to roughly 100–120 °C. Place 3–4 smoking wood chunks among the embers. Place the heat distribution plate onto the Kamado. You can also place an aluminum tray filled with water onto the plate to humidify the grill. The tray will also conveniently catch the fat dripping from the brisket. Next, put the grilling grate in place and place the brisket on it fatty side down. Stick a meat thermometer into the brisket and close the grill lid. Smoke the brisket until the internal temperature reaches roughly 70 °C. This can take 5–7 hours depending on the temperature and the size of the brisket.

Next, remove the brisket from the Kamado and wrap it in Butcher Paper. Stick the meat thermometer sensor back into the brisket and close the grill lid. Let the brisket cook for another 5–7 hours, until the internal temperature reaches 95 °C.

Remove the brisket from the Kamado and place it in a cooler in the Butcher Paper. This will create an insulating effect and keep the brisket warm. Let the brisket rest for at least a couple of hours before cutting it.

Cut the brisket and serve with a side such as roasted or grilled vegetables. Coleslaw and different BBQ sauces are also excellent with the brisket!

BBQ WINGS

- 1,5 kg unseasoned chicken wings
- 1 dl oil
- 70 g spice rub
- 2–3 dl ready-made BBQ sauce

Start by combining the spice rub and oil, then pour the mixture on top of the chicken wings, mix carefully and leave in the refrigerator to marinate for 24 hours.

Heat the Kamado to approx. 150 °C and make sure that all of the charcoals are evenly lit. Tip! A chimney starter and the Kamado ignition fan are excellent tools for lighting the charcoals.

Place a few smoking wood chunks over the ember bed and put the heat distributor plate and the grilling grate in place. Set the wings evenly on the grate. If necessary, use an elevated grate in order to fit all the wings at once. Smoke the wings in roughly 150 °C for 30–40 min, occasionally basting them with the BBQ sauce.

Serve the wings with a side such as vegetable sticks and dip made from sour cream or mayonnaise!

Easy lighting

Many people find it difficult and time-consuming to light charcoal and briquettes. On top of that, the food can end up tasting like lighter fluid. But this is now all in the past.

By using a chimney starter, you can get your charcoal and briquettes ready for use in about 10 minutes. This is the same amount of time it would take to preheat a gas grill, for example.

So how does a chimney starter work? Fill the chimney starter with charcoal or briquettes. Place a few Mustang firelighter cubes or sachets on the charcoal grate of your charcoal grill or kamado grill. Place the chimney starter on top of them and light the firelighter cubes or sachets with a gas lighter or match. The flame will rise upwards in the chimney starter cylinder, igniting the charcoal or briquettes at several points at the same time. When the charcoal or briquettes on top start to glow red, pour them onto the grill's charcoal grate and spread them out in an even layer. Then all you have to do is put the grill grate in place and get grilling. Easy, isn't it?

Electric assistance

Have you heard of electric lighters for charcoal and briquettes? The Mustang grill lighter is an electric hot air blower that blows air at 650 °C onto the charcoal or briquettes, igniting them quickly. Place the tip of the grill lighter against the charcoal or briquettes and switch it on. Hold the tip in place for about 20–30 seconds until the charcoal or briquettes around the tip start to glow red. Then move the tip of the grill lighter some distance away from the embers and turn on power range II. This makes the grill lighter blow air onto the embers, causing the charcoal or briquettes to ignite rapidly around the grill. In about a minute, the charcoal or briquettes inside the grill will have been ignited. Then you just wait until the embers are ready for cooking. You can start cooking when the embers are evenly gray all over.

For kamado grills, there is also an ignition fan available, which is installed in the bottom valve of the grill. Ignite the charcoal with a chimney starter, firelighters or an electric grill lighter, then turn on the ignition fan. The fan blows air onto the embers, accelerating their ignition. It takes just a few minutes to ignite the entire mass of charcoal. After this, you can remove the ignition fan, adjust the bottom valve to the desired position and start cooking.

NEW MUCH-AWAITED PRODUCT! NEW MUCH-AWAITED PRODUCT!

Ecological coconut briquettes

Efficient and clean embers with bio-based materials

Mustang's new coconut briquettes are environmentally sustainable and bio-based. By using coconut shells to make briquettes, we turn biowaste into a sustainable bio-based product and contribute to the circular economy. This also helps to reduce the pressure to cut down trees. No trees are cut down to make our coconut briquettes. They contain zero percent wood.

Due to the density of the material, coconut shells offer the perfect properties for use in grill briquettes. A kilogram of coconut briquettes requires significantly less raw material than an equivalent amount of wood-based briquettes.

Coconut briquettes ignite easily, especially when using a chimney starter. They reach high temperatures with ease and are known for their long burn time. Our briquettes burn for about three hours. Coconut briquettes are known for their very clean combustion and low ash production. Little smoke is produced during combustion. The briquettes have very little flare-up, even if fat from the food drips onto them.

We use only natural additives in the production of our briquettes. The briquettes do not contain chemical additives, so they do not add unwanted odors or flavors to the food.

Mustang coconut briquettes are available in bags of 8 kg.

Wood makes a comeback

The trend for this summer's gardens and decks is wood

One trend for spring and summer 2024 is the return of wooden garden furniture on decks. Mustang's new Greenville range of gas grills fits in with this trend.

QUALITY AND STYLE The Greenville range includes three- and four-burner gas grills, with many wooden parts in their carts. The strong and sturdy steel carts have wooden parts that create the impression of a wooden grill cart. These grills blend in well with other wooden furniture on the deck and catch the eye on their own as well.

Greenville gas grills have very large cooking areas, divided evenly between a cast iron grate and a griddle. The efficient cast iron burners make the temperature suitable for cooking very quickly. You can use the warming rack to keep the finished foods warm while you continue to cook other foods. You can also use it to cook food.

REMEMBER MAINTENANCE The wooden parts of the grill require maintenance. Clean the wooden parts regularly by wiping with a damp cloth, at the same time as you clean the other parts of the grill. Remember to dry the wooden parts well after cleaning. When using a protective cover, ensure that air can circulate under the cover. This prevents moisture condensation and the formation of mold spots in the wood. Any mold spots should be washed away with a mold cleaner for garden furniture as soon as they appear.

The wooden parts should be treated with a colorless wood oil a couple of times a year. The oil treatment increases the service life of the wooden parts. Before the actual treatment, test the wood oil and any other conditioners in a small, inconspicuous area to ensure their suitability. Always follow the manufacturer's instructions when treating wooden parts.

Maintenance of gas grills

Extend the life of your grill with regular maintenance

To ensure that your gas grill lasts as long as possible, it must be cleaned and maintained regularly. It is particularly important to carry out in-depth fall maintenance of the grill before it is placed in winter storage.

FIRST Turn on the grill and heat it up to more than 250 °C. This will burn any fat, marinade and food residue left on the grid into carbon. Let the grill cool down to lukewarm.

GRATES AND GRIDDLES Spray the grill grates and griddles with Mustang grill grid cleaning fluid. Let it sit and clean the grates and griddles with a grill cleaning brush. Scrape off stubborn dirt and grease with a grill scraper. Then, wipe the grill grates and griddles clean of any loose dirt with a cloth. If necessary, you can wash the grill grates and griddles in the sink, as well. Dry thoroughly after washing.

Please note! If you have cast iron grates and griddles, only use hot water and a cleaning brush to wash them. Cast iron parts must not be washed with detergent. However, the Mustang grill grid cleaning fluid is also suitable for the cleaning of cast iron parts.

HEAT DISTRIBUTION PLATES Spray the heat distribution plates with Mustang grid cleaning fluid or grill cleaning fluid and allow it to work. Clean the heat distribution plates with a BBQ cleaning brush and finish the cleaning with a Mustang microfiber cloth. You can also wash the heat distribution plates in the sink. Dry the heat distribution plates after cleaning.

INNER SURFACES Spray Mustang grid cleaning fluid or grill cleaning fluid onto the inner surfaces of the grill and allow it to work. Use the Mustang cleaning pad to wipe the inner surfaces of the grill clean. Finish the cleaning with a Mustang microfiber cloth.

GREASE TRAY Clean the grease tray by spraying Mustang grid cleaning fluid or grill cleaning fluid onto it and allow it to work. Use the Mustang cleaning pad to wipe the grease tray clean. Finish the cleaning with a Mustang microfiber cloth. You can also wash the grease tray in the sink.

OUTSIDE SURFACE Clean the outside surface of the grill by spraying Mustang grid cleaning fluid or grill cleaning fluid onto it and allow it to work. Use the Mustang cleaning pad to wipe the grease tray clean.

Please note! Use the smooth surface of the cleaning pad to clean the outside surfaces of the grill. You can also use Mustang wet tissues to clean the outside surfaces. Finish the cleaning with a Mustang microfiber cloth. If necessary, rinse the cleaned surfaces with water.

LASTLY After cleaning the grill, place the heat distribution plates, grates and griddles back in the grill. Turn on the grill and heat it up to remove moisture from all of the grill parts. Let the grill cool down.

Once cooled, protect the grill with a grill cover. However, do not tighten the cover too tightly, as air must be allowed to circulate under the cover.

We recommend storing the heat distribution plates, grids and griddles in a dry, warm place, although otherwise the grill can be stored outside when covered. Please note that falling snow from the roof should not be able to fall onto the grill in winter.

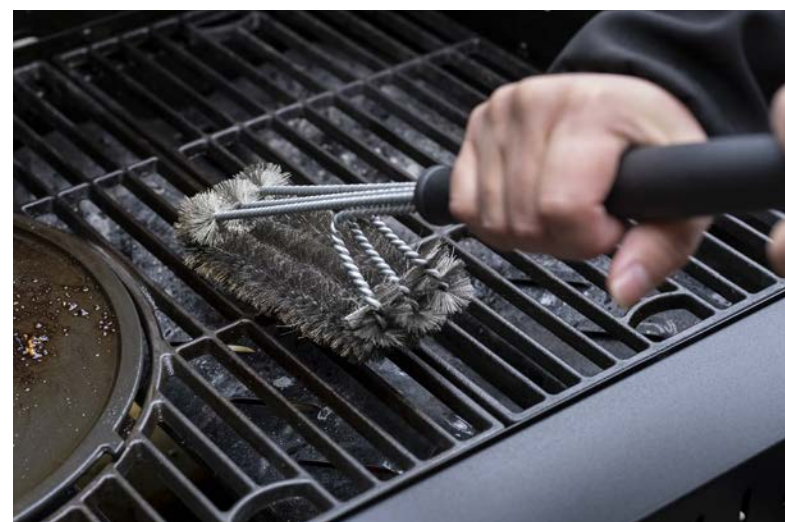

If you clean your grill after each use and carry out a more thorough cleaning at regular intervals, the grill and its parts will stay in better condition for longer. And it is always much nicer to start grilling with a clean, well-maintained grill.

Remember!
Grilling is a pleasure to start with a clean grill.
Clean the grill after each use.

Take your picnic to the next level

Prepare tasty picnic snacks with our lightweight portable grills wherever you go

Spring and summer are a time to enjoy outdoor picnics with friends. What could be more fun than spreading out a blanket on a park lawn and having some tasty treats and drinks while enjoying the sunshine and birdsong.

Mustang's new Party and Party Bucket charcoal grills are small and easy to carry around. They are perfect for preparing food on a picnic or fishing trip, for example. Prep your picnic food at home, and cook your sausages, chicken fillets, steaks and vegetables quickly and easily with the Party and Party Bucket charcoal grills.

While you may be hungry and in a hurry to eat, please take some time to consider the placement of your charcoal grill before igniting it. Charcoal grills must be placed on a heat-resistant surface. Even though the design of the grill reduces heat transfer outside the grill, safety must always be taken into account.

After grilling, do not throw the charcoal in the nearest trash can, instead take it with you. The charcoal and ashes must cool down before disposal.

Food trends from around the world

Asian food is great for grilling

Asian cuisine is one of the fastest growing food trends around the world. Many cities have at least one, but more often several, delicious Asian restaurants.

The abundance of these restaurants has encouraged consumers to try their hand at cooking Asian food at home as well. Many of our grills offer several different cooking methods for different types of Asian food.

Hibachi charcoal grills are particularly popular in Japanese, but also in Korean, barbecue cooking. These ceramic tabletop charcoal grills have spread around the world in recent years. They use charcoal or briquettes to achieve high temperatures. Skewers or ingredients cut into small pieces cook quickly on a hibachi grill.

When you place a hibachi grill in the middle of a patio table, people seated at the table can cook their own food on the grill. It is like having fondue or raclette, but with Asian food and a charcoal grill. Hibachi grills are already established in Central Europe and will be making their way to the Nordic and Baltic countries in larger numbers in the near future.

WAGYU BEEF AND PONZU SAUCE

100 g wagyu beef per person salt flakes

Ponzu sauce

1 dl lemon juice
2 dl soy sauce
1 dl mirin
2 tsp grated ginger
½ dl sesame oil
½ tsp sesame seeds
a pinch of brown cane sugar

Mix the sauce ingredients together and leave to rest in the fridge for 24 hours.

Grill the wagyu beef on a hot grill for about one minute per side, season with good quality salt flakes.

Serve the sliced meat with ponzu sauce. Garnish with shredded scallions and fresh chili pepper.

TUNA TATAKI

4 pieces of the very best (sashimi-grade) yellowfin tuna salt and pepper

Sauce

2 tbsp sesame oil
1 dl Japanese soy sauce
2 tbsp rice vinegar
1 chili pepper
1 single clove of garlic
2 tbsp cane sugar
a piece of ginger
juice of two limes
1 dl water

Watercress salad

2 bundles of watercress
150 g cherry tomatoes
a dash of olive oil
a dash of dark balsamic vinegar

Wasabi mayonnaise

1 dl Kewpie mayonnaise (any other unflavored mayonnaise will also do) season with wasabi to your liking

Start by heating up a paella pan in the Mustang Sapphire. Cut the chili pepper in half and remove the seeds, peel the garlic and ginger, and chop into slices. Fry them for a while on medium heat in the paella pan and then add the soy sauce, rice vinegar, lime juice, cane sugar and water. Cook over a low heat until the mixture thickens slightly, and then put the pan to cool in the fridge.

Prepare the mayonnaise by combining the mayonnaise with the desired amount of wasabi and season with salt.

Tear up the rinsed watercress, slice the cherry tomatoes and place them in a salad bowl. Add a dash of olive oil and dark balsamic vinegar in a 1:1 ratio and mix the salad. Put it in the fridge to wait.

Pat the tuna dry with a paper towel and season with salt and pepper. Now heat the grill to about 250 °C and grill the fish for about a minute on each side directly over the fire. Then place the tuna in the cooled sauce on the paella pan. Allow to marinate at fridge temperature for about 15–20 minutes, flipping the tuna or spooning the sauce over the tuna a few times. You can also leave the tuna to marinate in the sauce for 24 hours in the fridge.

Using a sharp knife, carefully cut the tuna into slices of about 2–4 mm across the grain. Place a heap of watercress salad on a plate and arrange the tuna slices on the plate in a neat circle. Pipe some wasabi mayonnaise on the plate and spoon some more sauce on the tuna slices.

THAI PAPAYA SALAD AND PRAWN SKEWERS

Salad ingredients

1 green papaya
2 carrots
10 cherry tomatoes
1 dl peanuts or cashews

Sauce

2 limes
3 hot red chili peppers
3 cloves of garlic
3 tbsp cane sugar
4 tbsp fish sauce
cilantro to garnish

Prawn skewers

3–4 peeled prawns per skewer salt and black pepper from a grinder oil

Grill the prawn skewers on a hot grill for about 2–4 minutes per side, depending on the heat of the grill and the size of the prawns. The prawns are done when they change color from gray to red.

Peel the papaya and carrots. Remove the seeds from the papaya. Cut the papaya and carrots into julienne strips. You can do this with a julienne cutter or a knife.

Halve the tomatoes. Cut the limes into quarters and place them at the bottom of a mixing bowl. Chop the chili peppers finely. Add the chili peppers, garlic, sugar and fish sauce to the bowl. Pound the ingredients with a potato masher, for example. Add the papaya and carrot strips and pound a little more. Add the tomatoes and peanuts. Pound a little more.

Arrange the salad on plates and serve with the grilled prawn skewers.

Grilling around the year

Grilling is not just for summer – with these few tips, you can also enjoy grilling in winter

Grilling large pieces of meat with smoke swirling around is easy also in wintertime.

Grilling is a year-round activity. Charcoal and kamado grills are particularly suitable for year-round use, but gas grills can also be used to cook in winter.

FIRST Carefully clear the grill of any snow before use. A cover over the grill makes this easier. Always be careful when removing the cover. Although Mustang covers can withstand -20 °C temperatures, they are rigid when cold and may tear if handled roughly. Also remember to clear the grill's surroundings of any snow to make grilling easier and more comfortable.

When using kamado grills, open the grill cover carefully so that any seals frozen together do not tear.

Tip! Put a thin piece of wood between the lid and bottom of the kamado grill. This way, the seals will not be able to freeze together. When using a kamado grill, place a few pieces of charcoal in the grill first and light them. A small flame will remove any moisture from the grill's structures before the actual grilling with more charcoal. This reduces the risk of cracking of the ceramic parts.

LET'S GET GRILLING When grilling in winter, take the longer pre-heating time into account. The grill is ready for use when the grill thermometer reads above 200 °C, preferably close to 250 °C. A kamado grill should be heated to a temperature above the desired grilling temperature and then allowed to cool to the desired temperature. This transfers the heat to the ceramic body of the grill, keeping the temperature even throughout the grilling process.

Gas grills are also well suited for winter barbecues. Please note, however, that the gas does not vaporize in the same way as in summer. Temperatures of a few degrees below freezing will not yet affect the vaporization of the gas, but any temperatures colder than this will make it more difficult for the gas to vaporize in the cylinder.

Bring the meat and vegetables you want to grill out only when the grill is ready for use, so that the ingredients do not cool unnecessarily.

In the winter, always grill with the grill lid closed. This will keep the heat inside the grill better. On dark winter nights, you will be able to see the process in the grill better when you attach a Mustang grill light to the grill lid handle.

AFTER USE Always clean the grill after use, and then cover it with a protective cover to make it easier to use the next time. Please note! Always wait for the grill to cool before covering.
