Cast iron frying pans with wooden handles

The beautiful new Maku cast iron pans with wooden handles are pre-treated with vegetable oil, and their non-stick properties improve with each use. The pans are suitable for all stovetops and open flames, as long as the wooden handle is kept protected.

A cast iron pan can heat to very high temperatures and retains heat exceptionally well. When properly cared for, a cast iron pan lasts for years - even generations - and only gets better with age.
